Turner and Slater Wrestle Next Thursday

Ever since the Vosnos-Mahaut wrestling match, when Ray Slater and Charles Turner, Jr., were to have gone on the mat for a finish bout, there has been a dispute as to what the outcome would have been. To settle the contention, a match has been arranged for next Thursday evening, June 24. Both men have been training industriously for two weeks, and it is said considerable will be wagered on the outcome. At any rate no match ever pulled off here has caused more comment on the qualifications of the two men. Pete Vosnos will referee the match also the preliminaries which will be given.

Jetney cars have been arranged to make trips every fifteen minutes from Main Street to the Arcade Hall where the bout will be held and also too the dance to be given afterwards. The dance and match is being well advertised and a big attendance is expected.

DAMON AND PYTHIAS

Four hundred years before the dawning of the Christian era, the drama of "Damon and Pythias" was enacted and has lived and grown down through all the ages until it is the foremost theme in the world today upon which universal peace may be founded.

It is this sublime story that is unfolded in the absorbing and soulful photo drama of "Damon and Pythias." Spectacular, stirring, gripping are its scenes; laid in Greece in the pomp and glory of her greatest day, with its colossal groupings, classic dances, games, the thrill of the chariot race, battles upon sea and land, cities built and cities destroyed, and through all this, with a dramatic fire and touch of sentiment runs the story of human friendship and its lesson of man's humanity to man—It's a photo play that will never die. To be seen at the Lehi Opera House tonight.

LOOK! LISTEN! READ

'Tis a Call From the First Ward. Come one, come all, to the First Ward and help the Sunday School of your own accord; A program nice and ice cream too, we have prepared for all of you. A harpist you'll be sure to hear so you come early and be near. Our books are worn, our music tattered, our teachers' faith is almost shattered to the four winds of heaven wide, with what they work with on this side. Now let all picture shows alone; don't give your children an ice cream cone; 'till the 23rd when you'll help us pay, a part of the debt that is in our way; by treating all who are in your wake, to a dish of ice cream or a piece of cake. The officers of the First Ward will sure appreciate, if you money spend and help obliterate, the debt we owe. Then we'll start out real spanking new, for books wear out the same as you; and if the Sunday school does its work, we all must help and no duty shirk. This invitation is to one and all, who look and listen and read our call. 'Tis the 23rd, now don't forget, or stay at home in a surly pet; for 'till we help and sorely need to, come with utmost speed, with full and a generous heart, for we too can do our part.

Theda Bara

Star of the Clemenceau Case, Gives Remarkable Talk on "Iza"

Theda Bara, the beautiful and brilliantly talented leading woman of the Playhouse of Thrills, the Theatre Antoine, Paris, has never been seen, not even in her famous role of the Vampire Woman of the celebrated production, "A Fool There Was," than in the picture play based in Alexandre Dumas' novel, "The Clemenceau Case." "The Clemenceau Case" is, in fact, a film drama peculiarly suited to the display of Miss Bara's great genius and its superb best. The character of Iza, the beautiful woman with the basilisk soul, whose diversion is luring men on to love and to ruin, affords her an opportunity to give a rendition of the most remarkable part ever written that will scorch the memories of her spectators like a living flame. Miss Bara studied the role of Iza in Paris and when selected to play it for the production of "The Clemenceau Case" once more delved deep into the psychological aspects of the seductive siren.

"Iza is one of those women born incapable of love, but with a feverish desire for admiration," declares Miss Bara. "Her treatment first of the unfortunate Pierre, at whose hands she meets her end, and later of Ritz Constantin, and a long line of other victims, is merely the logical outcome of her nature."

"I think of Iza as an analyst, a woman who sedulously studied all her love affairs and the character of the men whom she made her victims. How otherwise account for her sudden strange return of affection for Pierre after she had blasted his life and ruined his career? In the studio scenes, where Pierre first experiences her fatal fascination, Iza has not, so to speak, yet tasted blood. She has all the instincts of a vampire smoldering latent within her but she has not yet allowed them to get the better of her. At her best she is a beautiful woman infatuated with the swift, deep currents of life and love. At her worst she is appalling, capable of anything, a creature to make the run cold.

Her end is what the end of in real life would have been, in fact—the quickling vengeance of one of her victims.

This big feature will be seen Royal next week, June 23 and 24.
